Valentine’s Day spotlightees

To celebrate Valentine’s Day, we created a special Forum within the Xbox Ambassadors server dedicated to inviting the community to share their heartfelt adventures with their player two. Join us in spreading the love and cherishing the gaming journeys you’ve embarked on with your special co-op partner.

Here are some of our favorite responses!

mikeethedude	Fun topic! My partner and I have played through a lot of videogames over the years. Whether it was older games like Time Splitters: Future Perfect or Resident Evil 5 we always enjoyed playing some co-op games together. She wasn't as much of a gamer before we met but they have grown on her over time. Recently we have been having a great time with Baldur's Gate 3 and still occasionally come back to Animal Crossing to check on our islands.
DjPickle0203	I just love that my wife supports my love of gaming. For that I'm ever grateful and cherish her more for it ♥
Baghrar	My gaming buddy and I were down 3-0 in FIFA23 on Xbox. I scored a curling free kick, starting an epic comeback that fell just short. But we laughed and celebrated that goal for ages. Losing with my partner is still better than winning alone. Our friendship makes the losses sweeter.
Relly Donut	It's always good to have a player two. What's Fusion Frenzy without your wife?
Rodix You	I won't have my second player but my friends will not be missing to spend Valentine's Day in games

	Francisco Costa	My girlfriend is also my best player 2 and a lot of the times, the player 1, because she will be always the first in my heart.
non one c	My girlfriend and I actually met through gaming! We've been together for over 4 years now. Gaming was pretty much the connection that kept us together during covid when we couldn't meet. We've been playing a lot and still are- Some of our favorite games we played a lot together are Monster Hunter World, Phantasy Star Online 2, Pokémon Sword/Shield and Overwatch! We're currently playing some Palworld and Foamstars and are eagerly awaiting the new Monster Hunter Wilds. ♥

NasalEquation11	I don't have a partner but I do have an online friend. We just conquered Broforce. Every time we thought we had beat the final boss we painstakingly learned it was not the end! We eventually made it to the end only to be defeated time and time again. Eventually we succeeded. We laughed. We fumed. We were left speechless once or twice but it was a great experience.
Community Champion – Blueamcat	I went to the midnight release of Halo 4 to grab my copy while my husband stayed home with our then infant. I got home and we stayed up way too late playing the first several missions together. ♥
